About this piece

E. A. Taylor for Wylie and Lochhead. A pure Glasgow School oak desk with open writing area inset with green leather with tool worked edges, a central upper drawer with sweeping curves pierced with Taylor's typical twin hearts to each corner with a bank of four drawers to each side and simple good quality silver plated handles, further sweeping skirts all round the base, pierced with conforming twin hearts to the front, finished at the back so it will sit away from a wall if required.
